

EVENTS

MONTHLY MEETINGS

From October through March, ASHE holds lunch or dinner meetings that allow for networking and educational opportunities. Each month, dozens of engineering professionals converge to welcome keynote speakers whom address topics such as high-profile projects, consultant selection, transportation funding, and legislative and PennDOT-related issues. The meetings also offer plenty of time for developing relationships with fellow industry professionals.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Providing an opportunity to network with industry professionals, the highlight this event is the Review of this past year's accomplishments including recognizing the scholarship award recipients, as well as honoring the Past Presidents of the ASHE Harrisburg Section.

OTHER EVENTS

Scholarship award ceremony for aspiring engineers. The scholarship effort is the core of ASHE Harrisburg's workforce. The Annual Golf Outing, ASHE/PSPE/ASCE Picnic, Past Presidents' Banquet, and Young Member Focus Social Events are also attended by members.

In addition, the group keeps the Second St. Interchange of I-83 Clean through the Adopt-Highway Program.

Although I maintain memberships in numerous professional societies, ASHE is the only one that does not restrict membership. Construction inspectors, suppliers, contractors, consultant CADD operators, administrative assistants, and highway engineers can all be members of ASHE, and the annual dues are very reasonable. The monthly dinner meetings are always interesting, and the fellowship is second to none!
—Drew Bitner, ASHE Harrisburg Section Past President (2002-2003)

ABOUT ASHE

ASHE is a professional society that represents highway engineers and others involved in the transportation construction industry throughout south central Pennsylvania. The society strives to enrich the lives of the professionals it represents by providing several educational and networking events and opportunities throughout the year.

As a group of like-minded individuals who come together for the betterment of the industry, ASHE members are primarily concerned with solving the problems that challenge the industry. ASHE allows members to make connections with those who continuously aid in transportation construction industry advancement. In addition, members are well informed on developments within the industry through Profile, the monthly newsletter, and Scanner, the quarterly newsletter, published by the national headquarters.

Incorporated in 1958 and credited to a small group of dedicated engineers from the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, ASHE Harrisburg has since evolved into one of the largest chapters in Pennsylvania. The society includes over 300 members.

Although ASHE's core membership is comprised of highway engineers, other individuals, including contractors, material suppliers, equipment manufacturers, planners, administrative and support staff, and local/state/federal/government officials are also members of the society.

ASHE welcomes and encourages those interested in the Harrisburg area's transportation construction industry to consider membership.. The benefits of membership can be obtained for an affordable, annual fee.
